

Home Learning Newsletter

Week beginning 22.6.2020

Hello!

We hope you are all getting on well at home and continuing to enjoy learning together. We are still thinking of ways to keep curious minds thinking and growing while they are away from school. Our home learning grids change every two weeks and have lots of ideas to try at home that don't need screens. So, if you have limited internet access or are sharing devices then make sure you are downloading those from the Reception Weekly Learning Page or checking the newsletter for the updates. I'm aware that there are some skills that might be harder to practise at home, especially in the way we would teach them at school, so this week I have included a mini guide to writing to help you along your way.

Home Learning Tip: If you're struggling to find time for lots of focussed play or activities then prioritise those phonics cards. If your child is super speedy at recalling the letter sounds then they have a key skill in the bank for when they return to school.

Writing in Reception

These are the steps we use for children writing in Reception. By saying and stretching the word we encourage them to listen carefully for the sounds. By putting the sounds on their 'fred fingers' they can count and log the letters they will need to write. Please remember that your child is likely to miss sounds out of words. This is ok! Praise every effort. Let them be as independent as possible and keep practising their phonics!

Don't forget to see what Oak Academy have on offer this week!

Did you know...You can buy Read Write Inc phonics resources on Amazon? If your child is learning the set 2 and 3 sounds on Youtube then you can buy that box of cards HERE. Or if you are looking for some reading books you can try THESE. The red books are the starter level when your child is blending confidently and they then move on to green, purple, then pink (these are the read write inc levels not the ones we use in school).

You need your listening ears for your literacy and maths this week. Make sure you're concentrating!

Please keep emailing with updates about home learning and if your child is in school then you can contact us with any questions or information this way too.
