Home Learning newsletter

W.C: 29.6.2020

Hello! We know that teachers are back at school and this is a bit tricky when you know that you are at home. Know that we have been keeping an eye from home and you have been doing an amazing job, working hard and doing exciting things.

We know that lots of you are starting to think about next year. The thought of a new teacher, school and class can be a little bit scary but we want you to know that it is nothing to be worried about. It is important that you speak to your adults about any of your concerns so that they can help. They might also be able to ask your current teacher for some help if you are finding it a bit difficult. Over the next few weeks the RE and PSHE on the home learning grid has some super ideas around change and what we can do, so maybe have a go at some of these. Here is a story that might help as well 'Pinkalicious and the New Teacher.'

Please continue to email us weekly, as we are here to help support you during this home learning experience.

Daily English...

Please continue to watch the phonic videos daily. This half term, the sounds have restarted but there are new words for each sound. There is also a spelling video each day to link with the sound taught. Please click on the appropriate set for link, all links will be available all day:

Set 1 sound

Set 2 sounds

Set 3 sounds

For children who are now confident with all Sets 1, 2 and 3, there is now a new video each day to look at longer words and words that can't be sounded out (red words).

Read longer words
